Globally, 2 billion people remain unbanked and women lag behind men in terms of access to formal accounts, credit and savings products. FinEquity, a global community to advance women's financial inclusion, is convened by CGAP. It provides facilitated platforms to share experiences, identify key challenges, document and discuss emerging good practices, and solve common problems associated with increasing equitable access to and use of a broad range of financial services.

AMFA Executive Director Ms. Jhale Hajiyeva made pop-up presentation about Innovation and Outcomes on Advancing Women's Economic Empowerment in Azerbaijan.

FinEquity's steering committee consists of a core group of "champions" who guide our goals and strategy, outlined in our charter. Champions also help to implement an overarching work plan. Working Groups convene by theme and determine how to address knowledge gaps, as well as enhance collaboration among members in assigned themes.
